

Diktat Nr. 1: The first Australians

Aboriginals came to Australia from the north about 40000 years ago. There were many different groups. They each had their own languages, and their own stories, music and art. They moved from place to place to find food and water. They were able to live in the desert because they understood nature so well.